

WELCOME

Welcome to the Reuben Marambii Library. Remember, we are always here to empower you through information. You will need the library in the course of your studies at the University. This guide provides the bare basics for your acquaintance to use of the library. Feel free to contact us whenever you have an information need to be met.

LIBRARY SECTIONS AND SERVICES

USER SERVICES

The User Services is the front desk that you see as you enter the library. Use the desk to borrow, return, renew items. Seek assistance on e-books. Use the desk to give feedback to us and request additional assistance.

REPROGRAPHIC

The reprographic section of the library provides you with photocopying, printing and binding services at a charge. Overdue fines are also paid here.

The printer password is 9999

AUDIO VISUALS

Borrow multimedia resources (CDs, DVDs), headphones and network cables from this section. Also access the internet at the e-resource lab. Headphones and network cables are for use within the library.

PERIODICALS

Read newspapers and magazines from this section. Seek assistance on ejournals emagazines, newspapers, thesis, undergraduate projects and e-pastpapers here.

SHELVES

There are three types: Open, Reference, and Short Loan. Books from Reference are for use internally. Short loan books are borrowed for 3 hours or overnight from 5:00pm while books from Open Shelves are borrowed for use outside the library.

INFORMATION COMMONS

The Information Commons Room allows collaborative learning by providing a room for discussions. Keep it academic and keep it discussion. Do not remove furniture from this room.

THE LIBRARY SYSTEM - KOHA

The Reuben Marambii library is automated, and uses an open source library management system called KOHA. Here we illustrate the basics of using the system:

a) Access the System

Type opac.must.ac.ke in the address bar. You'll see results as above ↑

b) Conduct a Search

Type your search word at the address bar e.g. economics. You will see results displayed. Write down the call number and locate item from the appropriate shelf.

c) Retrieve the item

The library organizes its information resources using an international system called the Library of Congress Classification Scheme. Here, alphabets and numbers are used to code subjects e.g. H for Social Sciences, G Geography, Q Pure Sciences. To code a book, a combination of letters and numbers are used. Eg HF5565, QD256, L128 Each book in the library is given a number on the spine called a Call Number which is made up of the subject number, initials of the author and year of publication. Books on the shelf are then organized alphanumerically in ascending order by the call number on the spine.

LIBRARY GUIDELINES

Guidelines

1. Students will be issued with a Student's ID. If lost please report to the library immediately.
2. Users shall not obtain or use this ID card under false pretences.
